Silas Marner

BY GEORGE ELIOT

PART ONE Chapter I

SILAS MARNER, PAST AND PRESENT

IN THE days when the spinning wheels hummed busily in the farmhouses there might be seen, in districts far away among the hills, certain pallid, undernourished men, who, by the side of the heavy countryfolk, looked like the remnants of a disinherited race. The shepherd's dog barked fiercely when one of these alien-looking men appeared on the upland, dark against the early winter sunset; for what dog likes a big, pale man rarely stored abroad without that mysterious burden. The shepherd himself, though he had good reason to believe that the big, bold-looking man was a strong linen spun from that thread, was not quite sure that this trade of weaving, indispensable though it was, could be carried on entirely without the help of the Evil One. In that far-off time no man or thing that was at all unusual, like the visits of the peddler or the hater of the village, was without its own story.

As you read the two chapters that follow, allow your imagination to enter you. For good reading of Silas Marner for the eye the village of Raveloe. See the people of Raveloe, noting how their lives differ from ours, and how their reactions nevertheless show that human beings have not changed very much during the last one hundred and fifty years. Keep in mind also that Raveloe is in a parish of the Church of England at a time when some parishes had broken away from the Church to set up their own churches.

National Honor Society

Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service are cardinal qualities worthy of encouragement in all schools. The object of the National Honor Society shall be to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character in students of the secondary schools of the nation.

Candidates for membership must have spent at least one semester in this school and maintain a grade average of 87 before being considered. The candidates shall then be considered for election to membership on the basis of Character, Leadership, and Service.

The highlight of the year for the Joshua Chapter of the National Honor Society was the installation of the sophomores who had met the high standards maintained by the chapter. Those installed as provisional members were Kathy Bentley, Dwin Staples, Judy Stanley, Vance Mansur, and Kathleen Wooley. After the installation ceremony a tea was held in the Homemaking Cottage for friends and parents of the members of the National Honor Society.
